Developing Coaching Skills

Helena, MT

The successful leader is one who can coach others to reach their potential, whilst holding the team accountable. This course is designed to explore the foundations to effective coaching and develop skills for developing trusting relationships.

Topics in this course will include developing expectations and evaluation of performance, relationship building, and underlying trust building behaviors. Participants will learn the situational reality of working differently with different people. Finally, participants will learn how to structure coaching conversations and practice live one-on-one coaching.
